Lynne D. Larkin

20 September 1977

Dear Admiral Turner,

As a member of the Dundee Society (Class 32) and as the artistic half of the team of Fletcher and Larkin ("When He Was a Lad..."), I must express my delight with your thank-you note sent to the Guru and read by his intimates.

However, I would like to offer a suggestion which would serve to raise your consciousness, thereby enhancing your prestige in a position where you are truly a figure of authority and influence. In this enlightened age we no longer recognize masculine nouns such as "Messrs." as being indefinite and possibly including members of both sexes.

Sincerely,
Your Dundee Sister,

P.S. I was also the only one who could read the definition of "paranomastic" in the Oxford Unabridged Dictionary without a magnifying glass. Love it!
